

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

HOKUTO CORPORATION (security code: 1379)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: A-
Outlook: Stable

Rationale

- (1) HOKUTO CORPORATION (the "Company") is Japan's largest mushroom producer, ranking top in Japan in terms of the production volume of its mainstay brown bunashimeji and eryngii mushrooms. It has an integrated production system from cultivation through harvesting with self-developed bacterial strains and operates production centers nationwide. Its business base is solid backed by brand strength, product quality, cost competitiveness, etc. In order to differentiate itself from other companies, it is working to strengthen the premium line, its proprietary products such as premium shiitake mushroom Fresh Donko. As part of its growth strategy, the Company is also making efforts for overseas development. The Company has operations in the United States, Taiwan, and Malaysia, and plans to further expand its business by establishing a new factory in the United States in the future.
- (2) The company's performance is expected to remain solid going forward. In the domestic mushroom business, production and sales strategies emphasizing appropriate selling prices have been effective in recent years. Although the unit selling price of mushrooms is susceptible to vegetable market conditions, the Company is the market leader, and it is considered possible to control prices to some extent through production adjustments and other measures. For the overseas mushroom business, a certain contribution to performance is also expected. The Company is expected to maintain its sound financial position. Based on the above, JCR has affirmed the rating on the Company with a Stable outlook.
- (3) The operating profit for the fiscal year ending March 2027 (FY2026) is planned to be 7.2 billion yen (up 3.3% year on year). In response to rising costs, the Company is expected to implement cost-reduction measures while maintaining and improving selling prices. Going forward, costs such as raw material, fuel expenses and labor costs are expected to continue rising, making it increasingly important to strengthen pricing control capabilities so that these costs can be appropriately passed on to selling prices. JCR will continue to closely monitor this together with business performance and investment trends in the U.S.
- (4) The Company's financial position remains sound, with an equity ratio of 57.1% at the end of FY2025, compared with 52.8% at the end of the previous fiscal year. Capital investment had been restrained since FY2022, but as business performance improved, the Company has increased its investment from FY2025 onward. Capital investment in the U.S. is expected to increase. However, as no new mushroom production plants are planned in Japan, capital expenditures are expected to remain within the Company's operating cash flow.

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating herewith presented by JCR is its summary opinion with regard to the likelihood of given debt payment and hence not necessarily a perfect representation of such likelihood. The credit rating is not intended to estimate the probability of default or the loss on given default, either.
- The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The credit rating is subject to alteration if the issuer increases/ decreases its debt/ capital or vice versa and thereby makes its individual debt payment liability less or more bearable and its loss absorption capacity into the future decreased or increased. Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

C) Liquidity Positions

The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

Also, in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, the credit rating is subject to alteration if and when the likelihood of such non-payment is projected to increase or decrease.
