

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

Central Japan Railway Company (security code: 9022)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: AAA
Outlook: Stable

Rationale

- (1) Central Japan Railway Company (the "Company") has established a robust business foundation centering on the Tokaido Shinkansen linking the three major metropolitan areas (Tokyo, Nagoya, Osaka). It also operates the real estate business and the distribution business mainly in the major stations, such as Nagoya Station, on its railway lines. Currently, the Chuo Shinkansen Plan is underway, and 77 construction contracts were concluded (covering about 90% of approximately 286-kilometer line between Shinagawa and Nagoya with plans for extension) with the land acquisition rate of about 75% as at the end of March 2024.
- (2) Demand recovery has become clearer mainly for the Tokaido Shinkansen, the core earnings source. Costs are expected to continue to increase; however, JCR believes that the Company will be able to maintain a current profit level through recovering the transportation revenue and other factors. Investment burden is expected to become heavier due to an increase in Chuo Shinkansen-related investment, but this will unlikely give a large impact on the financial side in the future as well. Based on the above, JCR has affirmed the rating on the Company with Stable outlook.
- (3) For the fiscal year ended March 2024 (FY2023), operating income was 607.3 billion yen, up 62.2% from the previous fiscal year. Transportation volume recovered both for Shinkansen and conventional lines, and also the distribution and real estate businesses, etc. steadily performed. For FY2024, an operating income of 608 billion yen, up 0.1% from the previous fiscal year, is projected. Going forward, transportation volume will still likely grow for Shinkansen as indicated that it has already exceeded the pre-pandemic level for Saturdays and holidays, mainly used for sightseeing purposes. On the other hand, personnel and property costs, among others, are expected to increase. The transaction volume for weekdays, mainly used for business purposes, has not recovered to the pre-pandemic level; therefore, JCR will pay attention to the consequences of the measures for demand generation and increasing unit price of usage in the future.
- (4) For FY2024, capital investment is planned to be 674 billion yen against 480.5 billion yen for the previous fiscal year. Of the projection, investment for the Chuo Shinkansen is 350 billion yen as opposed to 259.4 billion yen for the previous fiscal year. For FY2025 and beyond, a high level of capital investment will likely continue centering on the Chuo Shinkansen-related matters. Despite the fact mentioned above, interest-bearing debt will unlikely largely increase for the time being partly on the ground of the following: (i) 3 trillion yen out of the total construction costs of 7.04 trillion yen (estimated) was already procured through the fiscal investment and loan program in 2017; and (ii) cash flow generation capacity has recovered.

3 The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating herewith presented by JCR is its summary opinion with regard to the likelihood of given debt payment and hence not necessarily a perfect representation of such likelihood. - The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.

A) Business Bases

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is improvement or deterioration of the issuer's business bases, since its revenue, etc. may improve or deteriorate by the change in its business management policies, clients' preferences, competitive situation, or a technological innovation. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the business bases is large.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The credit rating is subject to alteration if the issuer increases/ decreases its debt/ capital or vice versa and thereby makes its individual debt payment liability less or more bearable and its loss absorption capacity into the future decreased or increased. Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

C) Liquidity Positions

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's financial management policy or in the relations with fund procurement sources and the change thereby makes its liquidity positions improve or deteriorate. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's parent company or subsidiary, guarantor or other provider of credit enhancement, or the government of the issuer's business domicile, or other related parties' own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer, and the change thereby makes its business bases, financial grounds and/ or liquidity positions improve or deteriorate, and/ or making the effectiveness of guarantee and other credit enhancement improve or deteriorate. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment and Non-Payment Forgiven by Contract

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the rated debt's status in the order of seniority relative to other debts caused by the improvement/ deterioration of the issuer's financial condition. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large. Also, in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, the credit rating is subject to alteration if and when the likelihood of such non-payment is projected to increase or decrease. The resultant alteration of the credit rating could be by a notch but often as much as a few notches.

F) Rise and Fall in General Economy and Markets

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a rise/ fall in the general economy and/ or the markets inducing the issuer's revenues/ expenses to increase/ decrease and vice versa, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is exceptionally large.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The credit rating herewith presented could be changed if and when the assumptions made at the time of its determination turn out to be inaccurate with regard to the issuer's financial grounds and asset quality. JCR assumes the resultant change of the credit rating is most likely by a notch. The change could be as much as a few notches if the issuer's financial structure differs so much and thereby the balance between debts shifted so greatly.
