

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

YAMAHA CORPORATION (security code: 7951)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: AA-
Outlook: Stable

Rationale

- (1) YAMAHA CORPORATION (the "Company") is the world's largest musical instruments manufacturer. It is handling a broad range of products including pianos, digital musical instruments, wind, string, percussion instruments and guitars. Other than this, it operates the audio equipment business. In recent years, the Company also has been focusing on in-vehicle audio. Backed by its strong brand power, the Company globally operates businesses, with three quarters of its sales coming from overseas.
- (2) In the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic, demand for corporate-use audio equipment has been recovering, primarily in Europe and North America, but the core musical instruments business continues to be affected by slowing demand in China. In response to this, the Company has been promoting structural reforms, including a review of its piano manufacturing processes, and is seeing a certain level of success. Increasing product and geographic diversification continues to support earnings. The financial structure is favorable. With capital investment expected to remain within the scope of operating cash flow, the current strong financial base is likely to be maintained. Based on the above, JCR has affirmed the rating on the Company with Stable outlook.
- (3) The forecast for business revenue for the fiscal year ending March 2025 (FY2024) announced at the time of the release of financial results for the second quarter of FY2024, is 37 billion yen (up 9.9% year on year). Although the Chinese market continues to be sluggish more than previously expected, earnings from the audio equipment business are expected to continue to recover as the number of concerts and live shows increases in Europe and other regions. In the medium term, JCR sees that the recovery of demand for pianos in China, which the Company positions as a growth market, is the key to profit growth. Although the outlook for demand in China remains very uncertain, there appears to be ample room for market development, particularly among seniors. JCR will continue to pay close attention to the state of inventory on the market and the results of sales strategies.
- (4) With the ratio of equity attributable to owners of the parent as of the end of the second quarter of FY2024 was 77.7% (76.6% at end-FY2023), the Company continues to maintain its favorable financial structure. Although a certain amount of investment, including M&A, is assumed, it will be able to continue to keep its current financial position, given its high cash flow generation capacity, in JCR's view.

3 The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating herewith presented by JCR is its summary opinion with regard to the likelihood of given debt payment and hence not necessarily a perfect representation of such likelihood. The credit rating is not intended to estimate the probability of default or the loss on given default, either.
- The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.

The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the business bases is large.

The credit rating is subject to alteration if the issuer increases/ decreases its debt/ capital or vice versa and thereby makes its individual debt payment liability less or more bearable and its loss absorption capacity into the future decreased or increased. Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

C) Liquidity Positions

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's financial management policy or in the relations with fund procurement sources and the change thereby makes its liquidity positions improve or deteriorate. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large..

D) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment and Non-Payment Forgiven by Contract

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the rated debt's status in the order of seniority relative to other debts caused by the improvement/ deterioration of the issuer's financial condition. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large. Also, in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, the credit rating is subject to alteration if and when the likelihood of such non-payment is projected to increase or decrease. The resultant alteration of the credit rating could be by a notch but often as much as a few notches.

E) Rise and Fall in General Economy and Markets

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a rise/ fall in the general economy and/ or the markets inducing the issuer's revenues/ expenses to increase/ decrease and vice versa, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is exceptionally large.
