

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

The Bank of Nagoya, Ltd. (security code: 8522)

<Assignment>

Short-term Issuer Rating: J-1

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: A
Outlook: Stable
Bonds (Tier 2 with loss absorption clause): A-

Rationale

- (1) The Bank of Nagoya, Ltd. (the Bank) is a regional bank II headquartered in Nagoya City, Aichi Prefecture with a fund volume of 5.0 trillion yen. In Aichi Prefecture where there are many financial institutions, it secures a market share of 5% (excluding JAPAN POST BANK Co., Ltd.) for deposits and 9% for loans in a stable manner. The rating reflects relatively strong earning capacity supported by robust lending and investment operations, as well as the quality of loan assets, which are well diversified and secured. While there has been a significant improvement in the Bank's fundamental earning capacity over the medium to long term, its core capital has been at a low level. Whether the Bank can enhance its capital adequacy relative to risk will be a key factor in determining the rating.
- (2) The Bank's fundamental profitability is high for a regional bank in the A rating range. Core net business income (excluding gains/losses on cancellation of investment trusts) has been on an upward trend, with a significant increase of 60% year-on-year to 23.2 billion yen for the fiscal year ended March 2025 (FY2024). In addition to the continued expansion of interest on loans and discounts less interest on deposits, investment income in the market division has significantly increased. Thanks to the medium- to long-term expansion of top-line income, ROA (based on core net business income) has risen from around 0.2% when it hit the bottom to the low 0.4% range. However, the aggressive pursuit of term deposits may slow the expansion of interest on loans and discounts less interest on deposits in the future due to rising deposit interest rates. Nevertheless, JCR believes that the Bank will maintain relatively high profitability, supported by steady trend in loan balance and expansion of investment income from bond investments.
- (3) Soundness of loan assets is maintained. As of March 31, 2025, non-performing loan ratio disclosed under the Financial Reconstruction Act stood at 2.0%, which is at an acceptable level. A high loan coverage ratio is maintained through use of loans with guarantee from credit guarantee corporations. The amount of loans classified as assets requiring caution has been on the rise, and its scale is slightly large relative to total loans, but thanks to the effective coverage for loans, the ratio of loans classified other than assets having no problems with collection and asset impairment has generally remained at a suppressed level. The balances of LBO loans and other loans are on the rise, but the Bank is conducting credit management through strict screening processes, while diversifying those loans and other assets. Given the degree of loan diversification and coverage status, JCR believes that credit costs are still unlikely to significantly increase in the future.
- (4) Risks in the market division is appropriately controlled. In recent years, the Bank has been proceeding with loss recognition on low-coupon bonds and purchases of high-coupon bonds for yen-denominated bonds, while realizing gains on stock valuations. Due to low securities-to-deposit ratio and shortened durations, interest rate risk of yen-denominated bonds is small relative to capital. While private equity funds and other investments carry liquidity risk and their balances are increasing, the Bank is mitigating risks by diversifying investment targets within investment limits set by purpose.
- (5) Improving capital adequacy is an issue for the Bank. The adjusted consolidated Tier 1 capital ratio, excluding accumulated other comprehensive income, has been at a low level, standing at the upper 7% range as of March 31, 2025, which is a low level among regional banks in the A rating range. Amid situations that are expected to increase the risk-weighted assets such as the increasing loan balance and full implementation of Basel III, JCR will monitor the trends in the core capital level and other developments.

- Please see the news release. If the credit rating is a private rating, please see the report for private rating.

3

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating herewith presented by JCR is its summary opinion with regard to the likelihood of given debt payment and hence not necessarily a perfect representation of such likelihood. The credit rating is not intended to estimate the probability of default or the loss on given default, either.
- The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The credit rating is subject to alteration if the issuer increases/ decreases its debt/ capital or vice versa and thereby makes its individual debt payment liability less or more bearable and its loss absorption capacity into the future decreased or increased. Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

C) Liquidity Positions

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's financial management policy or in the relations with fund procurement sources and the change thereby makes its liquidity positions improve or deteriorate. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment and Non-Payment Forgiven by Contract

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the rated debt's status in the order of seniority relative to other debts caused by the improvement/ deterioration of the issuer's financial condition. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large. Also, in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, the credit rating is subject to alteration if and when the likelihood of such non-payment is projected to increase or decrease. The resultant alteration of the credit rating could be by a notch but often as much as a few notches.

F) Rise and Fall in General Economy and Markets

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a rise/ fall in the general economy and/ or the markets inducing the issuer's revenues/ expenses to increase/ decrease and vice versa, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is exceptionally large.

G) Various Events

The credit rating is subject to alteration on occurrence of various events, such as change in the issuer's major shareholders, M&A and other organizational change, accident, violation of the law, litigation, legal/ regulatory change, natural disaster, etc., which are unforeseeable at the time when the credit rating is determined, causing a significant change on the issuer's business bases, financial grounds, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating could be by a notch but more often than not as much as a few notches.
