

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

OSG Corporation (security code: 6136)

<Outlook Change>

Long-term Issuer Rating: A
Outlook: from Stable to Positive

Rationale

- (1) OSG Corporation (the "Company") is a major manufacturer of cutting tools. It manufactures taps for processing internal threads, as well as drills, end mills, etc. In particular, it has strength in cutting tools for finish processing where high accuracy is required. It has a well-differentiated position in the industry underpinned by its high product development capability, ability to make proposals for processing methods and so forth. Having bases in 33 countries around the world, it has an extensive global manufacturing, sales and support system.
- (2) The Company boasts strong product competitiveness and high profitability backed by such advantage. Its earnings capacity is beginning to increase along with the expansion of the customer base, thanks in part to the successful outcome of the measures taken to enhance the sales of cutting tools to the micro precision machining industry, a priority strategy under the medium-term management plan for the fiscal year ended November 2022 (FY2021) through FY2023. Hence, overall performance is showing signs of improvement even when the sales volume of automotive and aircraft-related products, long-time mainstays, has yet to fully recover. Looking ahead, JCR will keep an eye on the continuity of earnings capacity enhancement and so forth. Financial structure is good. Given the capital investment plan, etc., financial soundness is likely to increase further for a while. Based on the above, while affirming the rating on the Company, JCR changed the rating outlook to Positive.
- (3) Operating income for FY2022 is forecast at 24 billion year, increasing 9.6% from the previous year to mark a new high. Likely contributing factors here include growth in sales volume for taps and drills. JCR predicts that the Company can secure high operating income into FY2023 and beyond, on the grounds that sales of mainstay automotive and aircraft-related products are expected to turn around and that sales to the micro precision machining industry will continue to be enhanced. JCR will in the meantime closely watch whether the Company can absorb demand through differentiation efforts, including expanding the lineup of products that meet customers' needs and developing high value-added products.
- (4) Financial structure is favorable, as indicated by equity ratio standing at 73.8% as of February 28, 2023, as opposed to 72.0% at November 30, 2022. The Company also remains net debt free. As it plans to, among others, construct a new Oike Factory to maximize the capacity of producing carbide end mills going forward, capital spending for the time being is most likely to remain at a high level. However, because positive free cash flow can probably be maintained into the future, JCR assumes that the financial structure will keep improving for a while.

3

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.

Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.
