

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

Federal Republic of Germany

<Affirmation>

Foreign Currency Long-term Issuer Rating:	AAA
Outlook:	Stable
Local Currency Long-term Issuer Rating:	AAA
Outlook:	Stable

Rationale

- (1) The ratings reflect the country's diversified and highly developed economic base, solid resilience to external shocks, its track record of prudent fiscal management and its leading position in the EU and the euro area. In 2024, real income will recover as inflation declines, with a return to modestly positive growth led by private consumption. With the "debt brake rule" back in force as from 2024, the government is promoting further fiscal consolidation. The fiscal deficit is expected to be kept in control and the government debt/GDP ratio will steadily decline toward 60%. Based on the above, JCR has affirmed the ratings and kept their outlook Stable.
- (2) Germany has a highly developed economic base with the world's third-largest nominal GDP. Its per capita GDP exceeds USD57,000 in PPP terms. While industry has improved its productivity and competitiveness through constant structural reforms, some export-oriented industries are still in the process of responding to challenges such as rising energy costs, sluggish demand from China and securing strategic materials such as semiconductors. In 2023, the economy contracted 0.1% in real GDP terms due mainly to rising energy costs and a tightening financial environment. In 2024, the solid employment environment is expected to encourage real wage increases, leading to a return to moderate positive growth led by private consumption. JCR expects growth to reach the 1% range in the years ahead if steady progress is made in green transition and digital infrastructure investments. The country has massive net external assets, backed by persistently large trade and current account surpluses, and stays solidly resilient to external shocks. The banking sector has been stepping up restructuring and reinforcing its capital base, and there are no concerns about the stability of the financial system.
- (3) Germany has a long history of prudent fiscal management. The government has been focusing on sound public finances since a constitutional amendment in June 2009 that stipulated a structural fiscal balance for the state and federal governments (the "debt brake rule"). After a temporary fiscal deterioration caused by the COVID-19 pandemic, the general government budget deficit/GDP ratio and government debt/GDP ratio declined to 2.5% and 63.6%, respectively, in 2023. The "debt brake rule" had been suspended since 2020 due to the COVID-19 pandemic and the energy crisis, but following a ruling by the Federal Constitutional Court in November 2023, it has been reapplied since 2024. In response, the government has moved up the abolition of energy crisis support measures, such as price caps on electricity and gas, to the end of 2023, and the budget deficit in 2024 is expected to be reduced to below 2% of GDP. JCR expects the budget deficit to be kept under control and the government debt/GDP ratio to steadily decline toward 60% required by the EU fiscal rules.

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Economic Base

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to the issuing government's ability to maintain/expand the economic base into the future with maintaining soundness of financial systems.

B) Fiscal Base

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly correlated to fiscal balance, public debt and other factors of the issuing government's fiscal condition.
