

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

HOKUTO CORPORATION (security code: 1379)

<Outlook Change>

Long-term Issuer Rating: A-
Outlook: from Negative to Stable

Rationale

- (1) HOKUTO CORPORATION (the "Company") is Japan's largest mushroom producer, ranking top in Japan in terms of the production volume of its mainstay brown bunashimeji and eryngii mushrooms. It has an integrated production system from cultivation through harvesting with self-developed bacterial strains and operates production centers nationwide. Its business base is solid backed by brand strength, product quality, cost competitiveness, etc. In order to differentiate itself from other companies, it is working to strengthen the premium line, its proprietary products such as premium shiitake mushroom Fresh Donko. As part of its growth strategy, the Company is also expanding its operations overseas into the U.S., Taiwan and Malaysia.
- (2) The business performance has turned around. The initiatives implemented in the previous period, such as production adjustments and the review of sales policies with an emphasis on profitability, are proving to be effective to a certain extent. However, as production costs remain high, JCR will continue to confirm moves in pricing/sales strategies to see if the domestic mushroom business can secure stable earnings sustainably. Meanwhile, the overseas mushroom business has been successful in raising prices in the U.S., increasing its contribution to earnings. The Company's financial structure is at a sound level and is expected to continue to improve going forward. Based on the above, JCR has affirmed the rating on the Company and changed the outlook from Negative to Stable.
- (3) Operating profit for the fiscal year ended March 2024 (FY2023) was 3.1 billion yen (operating loss of 2.9 billion yen in FY2022). In addition to the aforementioned initiatives, the Company's mushroom unit prices have been stable, in part backed by consistently high prices in the vegetable market with unseasonable weather. For FY2024 the Company plans an operating profit of 3.3 billion yen (up 4.1% year on year). Although costs are expected to increase following the end of measures to mitigate sudden changes in electricity expense, JCR believes that the Company will be able to secure solid profits by implementing production adjustments as in the previous period. It is necessary to continue to pay attention to the risk of performance fluctuations with market conditions. JCR therefore will be closely watching whether the Company can enhance the earnings position by establishing a production system that matches demand, raising sales prices accordingly, expanding the business bases overseas, and so forth.
- (4) The equity ratio at the end of FY2023 was 53.0% (48.6% a year earlier). In light of the recent business performance, the Company has been taking a restrained stance on capital investment since FY2022. As performance improves, investment is expected to resume, primarily overseas, but with cash flow generation capacity recovering, equity capital is also assumed to grow. Interest-bearing liabilities will continue to be reduced for the time being, and the financial structure will likely continue to improve.

3

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating herewith presented by JCR is its summary opinion with regard to the likelihood of given debt payment and hence not necessarily a perfect representation of such likelihood. The credit rating is not intended to estimate the probability of default or the loss on given default, either.
- The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The credit rating is subject to alteration if the issuer increases/ decreases its debt/ capital or vice versa and thereby makes its individual debt payment liability less or more bearable and its loss absorption capacity into the future decreased or increased. Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

C) Liquidity Positions

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's financial management policy or in the relations with fund procurement sources and the change thereby makes its liquidity positions improve or deteriorate. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment and Non-Payment Forgiven by Contract

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the rated debt's status in the order of seniority relative to other debts caused by the improvement/ deterioration of the issuer's financial condition. Also, in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, the credit rating is subject to alteration if and when the likelihood of such non-payment is projected to increase or decrease.
