

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

Starzen Company Limited (security code: 8043)

<Rating Change>

Long-term Issuer Rating: from BBB+ to A-
Outlook: from Positive to Stable
Bonds: from BBB+ to A-

Rationale

- (1) Starzen Company Limited (the "Company") is a leading meat wholesaler. The Company is mainly engaged in meat sales, while also offering processed foods such as ham and sausage, as well as hamburger patty for McDonald's Japan. With strengths in its ability to procure meat in and outside Japan and to provide various parts of meat according to customer needs, it boasts a solid customer base consisting of major retailers, food manufacturers, etc. Moreover, it is focusing on enhancing food safety management by promoting the acquisition of SQF (Safe Quality Food) certification at its plants and sales offices across the nation.
- (2) Profit levels are rising. In the meat business, the Company is increasing earning capacity by appropriately passing on purchase costs to sales prices through inventory management in line with market conditions and adding high value to meat, and by adopting a profit-focused sales strategy. In the processed foods business, the Company is working to improve profitability by reviewing production items and expanding sales of value-added products. Regarding the inappropriate transactions that came to light in November 2023, the Company has taken measures to prevent recurrence, such as tightening its management system and increasing the mobility of personnel rotations. The measures are currently functioning properly, and the Company will be able to continue to secure stable earnings under the new structure, in JCR's view. Although more active investments are expected in terms of finances, JCR sees that the current level of financial soundness can be maintained. Based on the above, JCR has upgraded the ratings on the Company by one notch with the outlook changed to Stable.
- (3) Operating income for the fiscal year ending March 2025 (FY2024) is planned to be 9.4 billion yen (up 4.7% year on year), marking a new record high for the fifth consecutive fiscal year. In addition to procurement costs, logistics costs have been on a long-term uptrend, but the Company is currently in the process of redeveloping its logistics bases. Storage capacity is expected to increase significantly compared to the past, and costs are assumed to be reduced through more efficient logistics. Additionally, in order to expand earnings in the future, the Company is actively pursuing overseas businesses, such as establishing an export base for Wagyu beef and entering the fattening business in Australia. JCR will be paying close attention to whether these efforts will enable it to secure a stable, higher level of profits.
- (4) As of the end of the second quarter of FY2024, shareholders' equity was 78.7 billion yen (77.9 billion yen at end-FY2023), and the equity ratio was 46.6% (48.4% at end-FY2023). Inventory levels remain high due to the high market conditions, but inventory is controlled in accordance with demand, and the risk to business performance and finances is limited. The current medium-term management plan (FY2023 to FY2025) calls for growth investments totaling 40 billion yen, which is expected to result in an increase in interest-bearing debt. Meanwhile, the Company plans to sell its existing facilities while establishing new logistics facilities, thereby minimizing the impact on its finances. There is no change to its policy of maintaining a certain level of financial discipline going forward.

3 The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The credit rating is subject to alteration if the issuer increases/ decreases its debt/ capital or vice versa and thereby makes its individual debt payment liability less or more bearable and its loss absorption capacity into the future decreased or increased. Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

C) Liquidity Positions

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's financial management policy or in the relations with fund procurement sources and the change thereby makes its liquidity positions improve or deteriorate. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment and Non-Payment Forgiven by Contract

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the rated debt's status in the order of seniority relative to other debts caused by the improvement/ deterioration of the issuer's financial condition. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large. Also, in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, the credit rating is subject to alteration if and when the likelihood of such non-payment is projected to increase or decrease. The resultant alteration of the credit rating could be by a notch but often as much as a few notches.

F) Rise and Fall in General Economy and Markets

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a rise/ fall in the general economy and/ or the markets inducing the issuer's revenues/ expenses to increase/ decrease and vice versa, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is exceptionally large.
