

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

NEC Corporation (security code: 6701)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: AA-
Outlook: Stable

Rationale

- (1) NEC Corporation (“NEC”) is primarily focused on domestic IT services, while also operating in overseas IT services, telecom services, and aerospace and national security (“ANS”). ANS consists of defense, aerospace, and submarine systems. Despite its heavy reliance on the domestic market, NEC has built a high-quality and stable customer base. In May 2026, it acquired U.S.-based CSG Systems International, Inc. (“CSG”), a software company for telecom/broadband (“BB”) providers. NEC also aimed to create synergies with its subsidiary, U.S.-based Netcracker Technology Corporation, whose main customers are telecom operators, and worked to strengthen the business base for software and services for telecom/BB operators.
- (2) For domestic IT services, the business environment is generally favorable, supported by trends such as digital transformation, and NEC’s performance is strong as well. Profitability is also improving through providing scenarios in data-driven and modernization areas. Orders received in the defense domain are increasing, and business performance in that domain is on an upward trend. In addition, ongoing business portfolio management, such as addressing non-core businesses, has also been producing results. On the other hand, the acquisition price for CSG was considerable, and, relative to CSG’s net assets, the transaction is expected to generate a substantial amount of goodwill. However, NEC’s earning capacity and cash flow generation capacity are improving, and the impact on the financial structure at the end of the fiscal year ending March 2027 (FY2026) is expected to be limited. Based on the above factors, JCR have affirmed the rating on NEC with Stable outlook.
- (3) Operating profit (IFRS) for FY2025 was 359.9 billion yen (up 40.3% year on year), the fourth consecutive year of growth, strengthening the upward trend in earnings. In telecom services, expenses were recorded as a result of a review of base station business, but IT services remained strong both domestically and internationally. In addition, the defense domain expanded, and expenses related to quality issues in submarine systems decreased. Meanwhile, although an increase in operating profit is planned for FY2026, the growth pace is anticipated to moderate for the time being, partly because allowances have been incorporated in light of supply risk for components and the uncertainty of the macroeconomic environment. JCR will continue to monitor performance trends, including the degree of contribution from CSG.
- (4) Operating cash flow for FY2025 increased to 438.4 billion yen (344.4 billion yen for FY2024). Although there was a decrease in capital surplus due to changes in equity interests accompanying the tender offer for its subsidiary NEC Networks & System Integration Corporation, capital was strengthened through the accumulation of retained earnings. The ratio of equity attributable to owners of the parent at the end of FY2025 improved to 49.2% (45.2% at the end of FY2024), turning net cash positive. However, at the end of FY2026, the acquisition of CSG may make it difficult to maintain the net cash position. Further, NEC states that it has growth investment capacity of 1.2 trillion yen to 1.3 trillion yen over the five-year period from FY2026 to FY2030, excluding the CSG acquisition, and JCR will confirm the pace of growth investments.

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating herewith presented by JCR is its summary opinion with regard to the likelihood of given debt payment and hence not necessarily a perfect representation of such likelihood. - The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.

Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds.
