

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

The Chikuho Bank, Ltd. (security code: 8398)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: BBB+
Outlook: Stable

Rationale

- (1) The Chikuho Bank, Ltd. (the “Bank”) is a regional bank operating primarily in the southern part of Fukuoka Prefecture, centering on Kurume City, with total funds of 860 billion yen. Although the Bank holds only about 2% of the market share for deposits (excluding JAPAN POST BANK) and loans in the prefecture, it has a certain size of foundation in the Kurume City vicinity, with a market share of around 15%. The long-term issuer rating reflects a certain operating foundation in the locality and decent capital adequacy, as well as the earning capacity with room for improvement. JCR will keep an eye on whether the Bank will be able to further improve the earning capacity while maintaining the capital adequacy in the future.
- (2) The earning capacity is improving at present but still has room for improvement against the rating. Core net business income for the fiscal year ended March 2026 (excluding gains on cancellation of investment trusts; the same hereinafter) was 2.0 billion yen, nearly doubled compared to the previous fiscal year. Besides yield on securities rose through proceeding reshuffling of the portfolio, the profit growth was driven by the loan-deposit income turning into an increase and steady fee business. ROA based on core net business income has risen to a little more than 0.2%, but is the level somewhat pale among regional financial institutions in the BBB+ category. Going forward, JCR sees the earning capacity is expected to improve through increasing topline revenue centered on net interest income, thereby paying attention to the pace.
- (3) Soundness of the loan asset quality has been maintained. The ratio of disclosed claims under the Financial Reconstruction Act stood at 2.6% at the end of June 2026 (2.8% before partial direct write-offs), which is slightly higher compared to the average for regional banks, but is in a decrease trend. Credit costs have remained at a subdued level over the long term, less than 1.0 billion yen. That said, the Bank’s capacity to absorb credit costs by core net business income is insufficient. Considering the severe environment surrounding operating companies such as inflation and manpower shortage, continuing attention is required to the credit cost trend.
- (4) Risk associated with securities investment is somewhat large, but the Bank has substantially reduced investment trusts with unrealized losses. Thus, the risk exposure is in a downward trend. Currently, it is increasing yen-denominated bonds, but is mitigating risk of interest rate fluctuation as shown that it is shortening the duration and selling low-yield bonds. Contributed by the portfolio reshuffling, valuation losses on available-for-sale securities have decreased.
- (5) The capital adequacy is at a level commensurate with the rating. The adjusted consolidated core capital ratio at the end of March 2026 somewhat improved from a year before to around 8%, due mainly to a reduction in valuation losses on available-for-sale securities. Going forward, risk-weighted assets are expected to increase through implementation of Basel III finalization in addition to an increase in lending. That said, JCR sees the Bank will be able to maintain a decent capital level against the rating on the back of an improvement in the earning capacity.

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating herewith presented by JCR is its summary opinion with regard to the likelihood of given debt payment and hence not necessarily a perfect representation of such likelihood. - The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.

The credit rating is subject to alteration if the issuer increases/ decreases its debt/ capital or vice versa and thereby makes its individual debt payment liability less or more bearable and its loss absorption capacity into the future decreased or increased. Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

C) Liquidity Positions

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's financial management policy or in the relations with fund procurement sources and the change thereby makes its liquidity positions improve or deteriorate. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment and Non-Payment Forgiven by Contract

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the rated debt's status in the order of seniority relative to other debts caused by the improvement/ deterioration of the issuer's financial condition. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large. Also, in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, the credit rating is subject to alteration if and when the likelihood of such non-payment is projected to increase or decrease. The resultant alteration of the credit rating could be by a notch but often as much as a few notches.

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a rise/ fall in the general economy and/ or the markets inducing the issuer's revenues/ expenses to increase/ decrease and vice versa, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is exceptionally large.

G) Various Events
